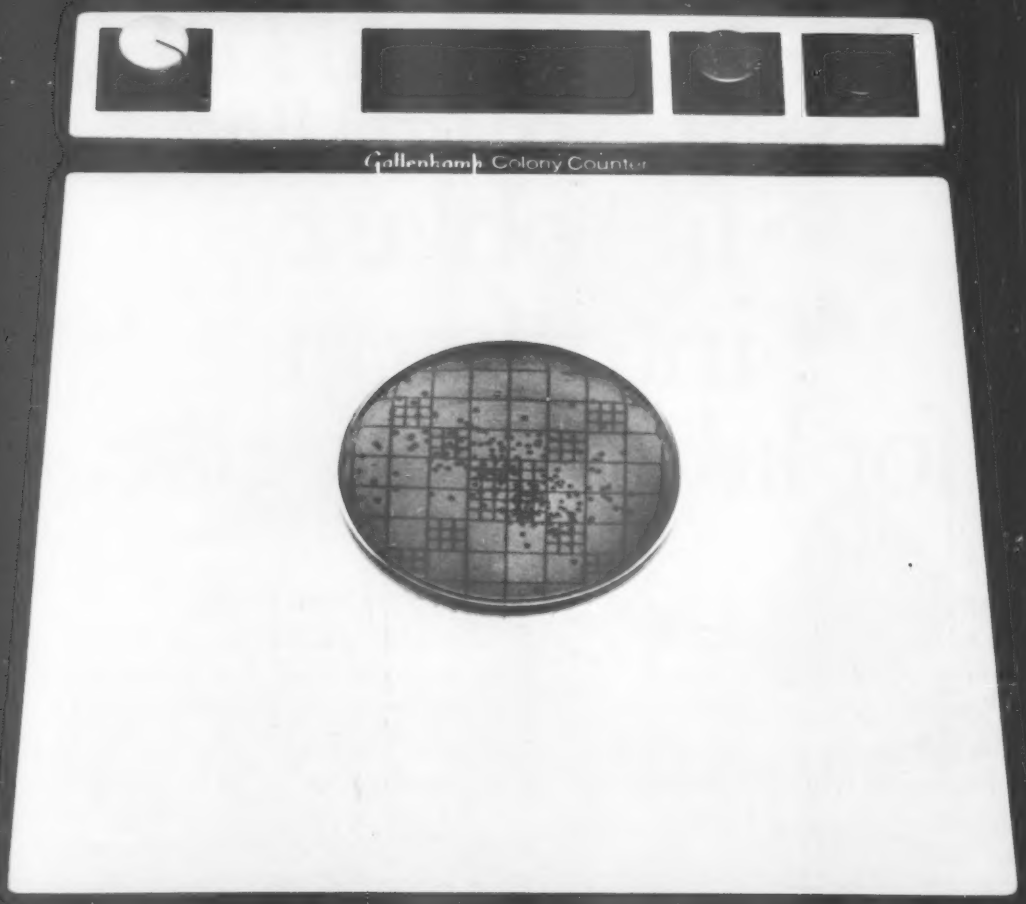
Style that counts



We've introduced some remarkable features into our new Colony Counter, each aimed at improving an often long and unrewarding but very necessary task.

The compact case styling, simple control layout and improved counter trigger system have resulted in a design which reduces fatigue during prolonged counting operations and requires no special probes or markers.

The counter is simply triggered by depressing the Petri dish. An unobtrusive audible tone increases counting speed by giving an immediate indication of each count action, rendering visual confirmation unnecessary.

Uniform, glare-free illumination of the dish holder minimizes eye strain and clearly defines even small or uncoloured colonies against light or dark backgrounds.

A dishweight sensitivity control is provided to suit each individual's preferred operating pressure and type or size of Petri dish. The unit has three other controls comprising a power on/off switch, a manual reset of the digital display and an audible tone on/off switch.
